

BELFRY REPAIR FUND

With the eventual disbursement of the promised £20,000 to the Southwark Cathedral Development Trust, BRF total funds have fallen back to just under £12.5k at the end of 2017. Receipts during the year were 27% down on the total for 2016 but, apart from the Southwark contribution, only £250 of funds have been disbursed during the year. However, some £1,250 has been promised upon completion of works currently in progress and the first of the projects arising from the Association-supported inspections is now due for consideration by the committee.

The Numbers Club, run by Jill Wigney, has gone from strength to strength this year, with contributions up 7% from 2016. Ringers helping at the Brockham Bonfire, co-ordinated by Noel Gibbin, again brought in a figure 10% up on what they earned in 2015 and 16% greater than in 2014. Numbers of private donors fell slightly as did the number of PCCs donating.

After many successful years arranging the sales of clothing to members, including a final burst in May, Frances Clementi stood down this year. Frances has created a broad and attractive range of items over the years and made the ordering process simple and streamlined. Volunteers to take over the running of this well-tuned machinery would be very welcome.

As it is anticipated that more demands may arise from the tower inspections part-funded by Libby LeBihan's legacy, the Belfry Repair Fund will continue to fulfil an important role for ringing in Surrey. All members are therefore to be thanked for the generous contributions they make.

Malcolm McAlister
